Two believed drowned in Ottawa River, would-be rescuer left shaken

Tragedy. Police say victims were likely surprised by sudden drop in river bed

JESSICA SMITH
jessica.smith@metronews.ca

Patrick Papineau dove into the Ottawa River on Saturday night hoping to save a drowning man, but he said when the man pushed him under, he swam back alone to save his own life.

Two men, 21 and 26, were drowning when Papineau, 22, jumped in.

Papineau returned to the river Monday after police found one body.

"I just wanted to know if there was any closure," he said as police continued to search for the second man. "I wanted to clear my mind about it."

The two victims were walking in the river near the Deschênes Rapids around 11:30 p.m. Saturday when they went too far out and couldn't get back to shore, said acting police inspector John McGetrick.

"It's two feet (deep) for a considerable distance and then it drops suddenly and they fell in," he said.

Papineau was walking along the bike path by the Ottawa River near Richmond Road with a friend when two young people screamed at them for help, he said.

As his friend called 911, Papineau dove into the river and found one of the two drowning men, he said.

"I grabbed his shirt, saying, 'Hold on, I'm right next to you. I'll get you back to shore,'" Papineau said.

"He turned around and practically jumped on me. He pushed me underwater. Then I had to disengage and remove him from me and swim back to shore because I was practically drowning myself."

From shore, he tried to yell at the man to keep in contact with him until emergency crews arrived, he said.

"The family were sitting there crying and yelling for help," he said. "I told them I'm sorry, I tried the best I could."

Range of medical issues

Busy Canada Day for emergency workers

Ottawa paramedics received 124 calls on Canada Day from the downtown core.

Most were treated on site though 19 cases required further treatment at a hospital. Medical problems ranged from minor cuts to respiratory and cardiac emergencies.

Nine people in total were arrested in relation to Canada Day festivities for non-criminal charges.

In Kanata, people were generally well behaved says Staff Sgt. Kevin McCaffery. Only one fire-cracker was confiscated.

Officials investigating. Weekend fires displace 12

Two separate fires in the city left 12 people displaced over the long weekend.

Firefighters responded to a fire at 9:15 a.m. Monday at 850 Kingsmere Ave.

Fire officials believe the blaze started in the kitchen, but are still investigating. The house was empty except for a dog, which was let out by a passerby.

The residents, a mother and her six-year-old son, have been left homeless. Damage is estimated at $450,000.

A fire at 52 Ashpark Cres. displaced 10 people Sunday night.

The fire started in the rear deck and spread to the attic.

Dismemberment case

Found remains could be linked to Magnotta

Montreal police are investigating whether remains found in a city park are linked to alleged killer Luka Rocco Magnotta.

A police source told The Associated Press the remains appear to be a human head.

Magnotta, 29, is accused of the murder and dismemberment of Concordia University student Jun Lin. He has pleaded not guilty and has opted for a trial in front of a jury.

Lin's torso was discovered stuffed in a suitcase behind Magnotta's apartment building in late May. His hands and feet were mailed to political parties in Ottawa and two B.C. schools.

His head has still not been found.

Montreal police spokeswoman Anie Lemieux says tests will be run on the remains to determine if they are in fact body parts and whether they're related to the Magnotta case.

Kidnapped aid workers rescued by Somali militia

Ambushed. Norwegian Refugee Council workers' convoy was attacked by gunmen

Four aid workers, including two Canadians, kidnapped at gunpoint from Kenya's largest refugee camp arrived back in Kenya's capital aboard a military helicopter on Monday after a pro-government Somali militia group rescued the four inside Somalia.

"We are alive and we are happy this has ended," Qurat-Ul-Ain Sadazai of Gatineau, Que., one of the Canadian workers, said after the group landed in Nairobi.

The four workers from the Norwegian Refugee Council smiled and waved after stepping out of the helicopter.

Among them was Steven Dennis of Toronto, the agency's head of operations in Kenya's sprawling Dadaab refugee camp.

A representative with the Ras Kamboni militia in Somalia said his group heard of Friday's attack and pursued the kidnappers. Ras Kamboni fighters caught up with the gunmen on Monday morning, about 60 kilometres inside Somalia.

Jehovah's Witnesses told to pay in sex-abuse case

Candace Conti says the abuse began when she was nine years old, distributing Bibles door to door with a fellow congregant; a hulking, loud man named Jonathan Kendrick.

It was the mid-1990s in Fremont, Calif. Conti's parents were having marital problems, her mother was sick and distracted. So the little girl found family in her tight-knit Jehovah's Witness congregation — and Kendrick found a victim.

For two years, Conti says, the man repeatedly molested her at religious gatherings, most frequently when she went out with Kendrick to proselytize. When he hugged her, she was afraid of being crushed.

"I was very scared," Conti, now 26, told Torstar News Service from California.

She later learned she was not Kendrick's first victim and sued the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society of New York — the corporation that oversees the Jehovah's Witnesses — alleging that church leaders, called elders, knew Kendrick had previously abused another girl and did nothing to protect her.

Her lawsuit alleged the church allowed her molestation and even had a policy, dating to 1989, that instructed elders to keep accusations of child sex abuse secret.

In a landmark ruling in mid-June, a California jury sided with Conti, ordering the Watchtower to pay nearly $25 million in damages and Kendrick to pay over $3 million.

"This was about telling the Watchtower ... that they gotta change. They're the last ones to be keeping this secret," said Rick Simons, Conti's lawyer.

While sex-abuse cases involving the Catholic Church have garnered extensive public attention in recent years, Conti's case shines a spotlight on sexual abuse within Jehovah's Witnesses congregations.

It specifically addresses allegations of extreme secrecy: of church elders hushing victims, of children having to come up with witnesses to their abuse, of victims being made to publicly confront

Statement

The Watchtower did not return a request for comment from Torstar News Service. But Jim McCabe, a lawyer for the organization, said in a statement following the Conti verdict that Jehovah's Witnesses "respectfully disagree with the jury's decision."

- "This is the first time that an organization was found responsible for the alleged misdeeds of a member who held no position of leadership or authority," the statement said. "We are very sorry for whatever harm this young lady may have suffered. However, the organization is not responsible."

- Jehovah's Witnesses, it added, "abhor child abuse and strive to protect children from such acts."

their abusers.

The Watchtower's defeat in court could lead to more lawsuits, possibly even in Canada, where there are more than 110,000 practising Jehovah's Witnesses and numerous former members.

U.S. East still reeling

Monsoon-soaked region in despair

Mid-Atlantic region.

After suffering through a sweltering weekend, millions must cope with transportation delays, difficulties

A weekend without electricity was already trying for millions in the sweltering, storm-swept U.S. mid-Atlantic region. But Monday morning brings another challenge when many embark on a difficult commute over roads with darkened stoplights and likely mass-transit delays.

To alleviate congestion around Baltimore and Washington, federal and state officials gave many workers the option of staying home Monday. Federal agencies will be open in Washington, but non-emergency employees have the option of taking leave or working from home. Maryland's governor also gave state workers leeway for staying out of the office.

There were more than 500 signal outages in Maryland on Sunday afternoon, including more than 400 in Montgomery County, according to the State Highway Administration. There were 100 signal outages in northern Virginia late Sunday afternoon, and 65 roads were closed, although most were secondary roads.

"If you have to drive or need to drive, leave yourself a lot of extra time," Maryland Highway Administration spokesman Charlie Gischlar said. "There's going to be delays."

As of late Sunday, nearly 2.7 million people remained without power in several states from Virginia to New Jersey and as far west as Ohio. That left many to contend with stifling homes and spoiled food, and utility officials said the power will likely be out for several more days. Since Friday, severe weather has been blamed for at least 17 deaths, most from trees falling on homes and cars. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The worst monsoon floods in a decade to hit a remote northeastern Indian state have killed more than 80 people and forced around two million to leave their homes, officials said Monday.

Nearly half a million people are living in relief camps that have been set up across Assam state, Prime Minister Manmohan Singh told journalists in Gauhati, Assam's capital. The rest of the two million displaced have moved in with relatives or are living in the open, sheltering under tarpaulin sheets.

Assam officials say 81 people have been killed over four days. Most of them were swept away when the Brahmaputra River overflowed its banks and flooded villages. Sixteen people were buried in landslides.

At least 11 people were missing in six districts, the state disaster-management agency said in its bulletin.

Air-force helicopters were dropping food packets and drinking water to marooned people, Singh said after surveying the flood-hit districts.

Scientists to make case for existence of 'God particle'

Higgs boson particle. Presentation of findings comes with not-so-modest promise of helping explain how universe works

Scientists believe the "God particle," which might explain the underpinnings of the universe is real and they are about to present their evidence to the world.

Working at the world's biggest atom smasher on the Swiss-French border, they plan to announce Wednesday that they have gathered enough evidence to show that the long-sought "God particle" answering fundamental questions about the universe almost certainly does exist.

But after decades of work and billions of dollars spent, researchers at the European

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Organization for Nuclear Research, or CERN, aren't quite ready to say they've "discovered" the particle.

The discovery of the Higgs boson won't change people's lives, but will help explain how the universe works.

It would confirm the standard model of physics that explains why fundamental particles have mass. Those particles are the building blocks of the universe. Mass is a trait that combines with gravity to give an object weight.

The phrase "God particle," coined by Nobel Prize-winning physicist Leon Lederman, is used by laymen more as an explanation for how the wonders of the subatomic universe work than how it all started.

Experts familiar with the research at CERN's vast complex say that the massive data they have obtained will essentially show the footprint of the key particle known as the Higgs boson — all but proving it exists — but doesn't allow them to say it has actually been glimpsed. Two teams of physicists present their work Wednesday. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

'Robin Hood' tax scheme continues to gather support

Taking from the rich. Campaign calls for a tax on all stocks, bonds, derivatives and currency trades

With actor Mark Ruffalo and Coldplay's Chris Martin recently publicly backing it, the Robin Hood Tax campaign is gaining steam.

The campaign began in the United Kingdom in 2009 and has seen a growing wave of support from grassroots organizations, activists, unions, politicians and economists in 14 countries, including Canada.

The campaign calls for the adoption of a financial transaction tax on all stocks, bonds, derivatives and currency trades. The tax would be set at between 0.5 and 0.005 per cent, depending on what's being

Innovative idea

The idea for the tax is based on Nobel Prize-winning American economist James Tobin's work, said Simon Chouffot, a spokesperson for the Robin Hood Tax campaign in the U.K.

- The idea was first popularized in the 1990s after the Asian financial crisis, Chouffot said.
- But after the financial crisis in 2008, which triggered a global recession, it really took hold among groups in Europe.

traded, explains Charles Idelson, a spokesperson for the U.S. campaign.

"We're calling for taxing banks and financial institutions that have caused the economic crisis," Idelson said.

"This tax could raise hundreds of billions of dollars every year on the trades done in the U.S. alone."

The Canadian Federation of Nurses Union's campaign in support of the Robin Hood Tax began earlier this year after their American counterpart adopted the idea following the 2008 financial crisis.

The nurses' union is hoping the federal government will take a look at implementing a Robin Hood Tax here as well, although so far the Harper government has said it wouldn't favour such a move.

The money could go a long way to improving the quality of life for many Canadians, said Linda Silas, president of the Canadian Federation of Nurses Union. Silas said that in the coming months more organizations will be asking for the tax in federal budget consultations.

Taco Bell. Hoax prompts free tacos in Alaska town

Residents of Bethel, Alaska, were ecstatic when they first heard a Taco Bell restaurant was opening in their small town.

The joy, however, turned into disappointment. The flyers announcing the chain's arrival was a hoax — the result, police say, of a feud between two residents.

But all was not lost — Taco Bell executives learned of the mixup and arranged an enormous feast for Sunday. They planned to fly enough ingredients in from Anchorage

"It'll be a big event for our community," Mayor Joe Klejka said.

Taco Bell will offer its fare for free. There will be 950 pounds of seasoned beef, 300 pounds of lettuce, 150 pounds of cheddar cheese, 500 pounds of sour cream and 300 pounds of tomatoes.

China. Apple pays $60M to settle iPad dispute

Apple has paid $60 million US to settle a dispute in China over ownership of the iPad name, a court announced Monday, removing a potential obstacle to sales of the popular tablet computer in the key Chinese market.

Apple's dispute with Shenzhen Provview Technology highlighted the possible pitfalls for global companies in China's infant trademark system. It also posed a challenge for the communist government, which wants to attract tech investors to develop China's economy.

Rights resolution

Apple says it bought the global rights to the iPad name from Provview in 2009 but Chinese authorities said the rights in China were never transferred. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Agency directs airlines to offer more options

Passengers on Canada's major airlines will soon have more options when their flights are overbooked, delayed or cancelled.

The decision by the Canadian Transportation Agency affects Air Canada, Westjet and Air Transat.

It says passengers should be allowed to opt for a full refund and a free trip home if a cancellation or overbooking throws a wrench into their travel plans.

Until now, airlines have had discretion over whether to grant a refund or rebook passengers.

The agency also says that in certain cases carriers must rebook passengers on the first available flight — even if that flight is with a competing airline.

The rulings are in response to complaints filed by GDabor LukDacs, a Halifax resident, who has taken on the airline industry several times.

In a news release Thursday, the agency noted that in the past, when refunds were warranted, passengers were only reimbursed for the unused portion of their tickets.

The ruling makes it clear that passengers will be able to choose whether they are rebooked or get a full refund.

If they no longer want to follow through with their travel plans because of a delay or cancellation, they are entitled to be flown home free of charge — within a "reasonable time frame" — and receive a full refund on their ticket.

The new regulations do not apply to disruptions caused by bad weather or security issues.

LukDacs, 29, who used to teach at the University of Manitoba, has developed a reputation as a crusader for the rights of airline passengers. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Policy changes

The agency noted that Westjet and Air Transat have made changes to their policies that meet most of the updated passenger rights.

- It is directing Air Canada to change its rules on overbooking, cancelling and delaying flights. Air Canada has until Aug. 12 to comply.
- The three airlines have 30 days to appeal the new rules.

U.S.A. VERSUS THE LAND OF 'EH'

SHE SAYS...
Jessica Napier
metronews.ca/shesays

I'm a dual citizen of both Canada and America, so the first week of July is a pretty festive time. I like to think that having two passports gives me the right to continue the patriotic celebrations from Canada Day through to the Fourth of July.

Many American's don't really care too much about what goes on across the border, possibly because they're too busy chanting "USA No. 1" as they spoon-feed themselves ranch dressing. And when they do think about us Canadians they're usually smirking.

The concept of "Canadian football" tends to elicit eye rolling, and Steve Martin famously mocked Toronto on an episode of 30 Rock as "New York without all the stuff in it."

Duelling citizenship

"But while the odds seem stacked in Yankee favour, this humble northern neighbour has some pretty amazing qualities."

And, yes, the beaver is a pretty laughable national animal when compared to the far more majestic eagle; and, yes, the names of our coins suggest badly drawn cartoon characters. Loonie and toonie? Come on.

Our taxes are higher, our Netflix options are abysmal and our telecommunications monopolies have a stranglehold on our mobile-dependent citizens with their high fees.

But while the odds seem stacked in Yankee favour, this humble northern neighbour has some pretty amazing qualities.

Here are 10 of my favourite ways in which the Great White North kicks the Land of the Free's ass (sorry to brag, it's the American in me):

1 Two words: American beer. Here in Canada, we generally don't like to dilute our beer with water. We also earn money when we recycle those bottles of stronger brew, so, really, that's two points for Canada.

2 Who cares what Microsoft Word has to say. Adding a "u" to words like "colour" and "favourite" is classier.

3 In this bilingual country, it's entirely possible to teach yourself a new language just by reading a box of cereal.

4 Canada is a constitutional monarchy, which means our lame obsession with the British royal family is somewhat justified. What's your excuse, America?

5 Legalized same-sex marriage.

6 Colour-coded money. Because why on earth would you make your one-dollar bill and your one-hundred-dollar bill look almost identical?

7 Canadians were wearing plaid before it was ironic.

8 Fact: Caesar > Bloody Mary.

9 We have the most patriotic customer-loyalty program: Canadian Tire money. Does Lowes have its own currency? Didn't think so.

10 We invented the electric light bulb, basketball, the telephone, and the greatest guilty-pleasure snack of all time: a heavenly medley of cheese curds, gravy and fries. O Canada indeed.

Getting into the habit for a good cause

One town in southwest Ireland devoutly found a fun way to promote a serious cause. Listowel in County Kerry saw over 1,400 men, women and children dressed in black-and-white habits to break a Guinness World Record for most "nuns" in one place, an event to raise money for Pieta House, a suicide and self-harm crisis centre. MWN

Numbers in B&W

1,456

The number of people dressed up as nuns who gathered in a Gaelic football field in Listowel on Saturday. They smashed the previous record of 250 achieved at Pinewood Studios, Buckinghamshire, England. The organizing committee initially hoped only 500 would attend. Participants came from as far as Florida and New York.

Nun the worse for wear

- Seeking release. "Overall, 'Nunday' was a fun way to release emotions for those who have suffered," event organizer Cora O'Brien, who lost a teenage son to suicide five years ago, told Metro.

- Dress code sacrosanct. "We did have to reject a few participants," O'Brien admits. "The dress code had many stipulations, including a need for black-only shoes. The outfits were rigorously checked and people were ticketed as they entered the field."

Spirits, and legs, rise as "nuns" gather to set a world record.

Get ready to feast your eyes ... and ears.

While art is creation, inspiration and expression, on Sunday, July 22, art is food, too.

The Art is Food charity gala is taking place at the Mill Street Brew Pub and will feature a silent auction of art donated by local artists, a draw and live entertainment by local musicians.

The tastiest part? All proceeds will go directly to the Ottawa Food Bank.

Event organizer, Yalitsa Riden, says: The food bank "has been a part of my life ever since I was a young girl. I remember going to the grocery store with my mother with bags of perishable items and dropping them into those large bins thinking how strange it was that there were people out there who didn't have this necessity available to them. # Cooper: 'I'm gay'

Coming out. CNN journalist says there's value in 'standing up and being counted' in Daily Beast essay

Anderson Cooper, who has been reluctant to talk about his personal life in public, revealed that he is gay in an essay posted online on Monday.

The CNN journalist said he had kept his sexual orientation private for personal and professional reasons, but came to think that remaining silent had given some people a mistaken impression that he was ashamed.

"The fact is, I'm gay, always have been, always will be, and I couldn't be any more happy, comfortable with myself and proud," he wrote in a letter to Andrew Sullivan of the Daily Beast.

Cooper, the son of Gloria Vanderbilt, had long been the subject of rumours about his sexual orientation. He said that in a perfect world, it wouldn't be anyone's business, but that there is value in "standing up and being counted."

"I still consider myself a reserved person and I hope this doesn't mean an end to a small amount of personal space," he wrote. "But I do think visibility is important, more important than preserving my reporter's shield of privacy."

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Excerpt

The Daily Beast's Andrew Sullivan asked Anderson Cooper for his thoughts on the topic of the visibility of gay people and what it means for equality. Here's part of Anderson Cooper's response.

- "...I've begun to consider whether the unintended outcomes of maintaining my privacy outweigh personal and professional principle. It's become clear to me that by remaining silent on certain aspects of my personal life for so long, I have given some the mistaken impression that I am trying to hide something — something that makes me uncomfortable, ashamed or even afraid. This is distressing because it is simply not true. I've also been reminded recently that while as a society we are moving toward greater inclusion and equality for all people, the tide of history only advances when people make themselves fully visible. ... The fact is, I'm gay, always have been, always will be, and I couldn't be any more happy, comfortable with myself, and proud."

Director. Marc Webb

Stars. Andrew Garfield, Emma Stone

It's only been five years since Spider-Man last soared across the silver screen. And that's perhaps this reboot's greatest flaw. Taking over for filmmaker Sam Raimi, relative newcomer Marc Webb largely restores the recognizable origin story about a kid bitten by a radioactive bug, who becomes a web-slinging superhero. In The Amazing Spider-Man however, Webb focuses on back story and succeeds with clever performances from a talented cast. Spidey improves as a livelier, more playful hero, too, but in essence, this web-head is too familiar for true impact.

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

So long to Scientology for Suri?

MONICA WEYMOUTH
scene@metronews.ca

We all knew that when Tom Cruise and Katie Holmes divorced, it was going to be a weird one. What we didn't expect was that after five years, Katie would snap out of her dead-behind-the-eyes trance with so much fight left in her.

Before filing for divorce on Thursday, the actress had already rented a separate apartment for herself in New York. Although she does occasionally live in the city, it could have been a strategic move: She's requesting sole custody of six-year-old daughter Suri, which is more likely to be granted in New York than Los Angeles, where joint custody is more popular.

"Katie's primary concern remains, as it always has been, her daughter's best interest," Holmes' lawyer said in a statement Friday.

The "best interest" part is, reportedly, a reference to the Church of Scientology, which Holmes doesn't want Suri raised in.

Although a high-profile member of the religion while with Cruise, Holmes is now afraid that she is considered a "threat" to the organization — similar to how Nicole Kidman was shunned after her divorce from Cruise — and is being followed around New York by church authorities, reports TMZ. It's all very creepy, for sure. But if Scientology wants to be respected as a real religion in 2012, it's going to have to start doing much more depraved stuff than stalking Katie Holmes.

"I go on and I pick the guys for my friends," the star of Ted tells Glamour magazine, via Yahoo!'s omg blog. "It's online shopping! We all get together with our laptops and have a glass of wine. Then we message the guy.

I'm just very honest and blunt." And she rewrites profiles, too: "I'm really good at 'About Me,'" she says. "I feel like I could never write anything about myself, because that's like a therapy session. But about your girlfriends? You just write what you love about your friends. If I didn't do what I do, I would do Internet dating instead of going out to bars."

33 shades of bizarre: Cruise playing numbers game with nuptials?

The next dame Cruise decides to date might want to double-check her birth certificate.

The web was crazier than a Thetan gone mad this weekend over the impending divorce of Tom Cruise and Katie Holmes, but PerezHilton.com picked up on a particularly odd pattern in Tom Cruise's romantic history.

"All three of Tom Cruise's marriages have ended when the wives were 33.

He wed MiMi Rogers

in May of 1987, but they broke up in 1990... when she was 33.

Then he moved on with Nicole Kidman. They were happy for 10 years but guess what! They split when she was 33 too! And now, just a day after her divorce announcement, Katie Holmes has 33 years under her belt. Katie collects 3 million for each year of marriage, up to a maximum of 11 years, equaling $33M (we're back to that 33 numerology again)."

Electric Foxy's Move vest is every fitness fanatics dream item of clothing. The new-age technology garment is designed to alleviate incorrect physical movement, promising optimal precision and positioning in sports such as yoga, pilates, golf and baseball, for which posture and fluidity of movement is key. How is this possible? The garment analyzes your movements and if you are doing them incorrectly, sends you real-time feedback – a subtle nudge – at the point where the adjustment is needed. # Have you got what it takes to be an Olympic athlete?

How can you know if you have what it takes to be an Olympic star if you've never tried? Metro talks to Dr. Marco Cardinale, head of sports science and research of the British Olympic Association, to find out why athletes are above average. ROMINA MCGUINNESS

First, pair your body with sport

"There are 26 sports in the summer Olympics so there isn't a standard 'body type,'" says Cardinale. "Each sport suits a body. If you think about the differences between a boxer and a runner you realize how different bodies can be successful in sport. While this means that potentially everyone can become an Olympic athlete, it's not that easy. Olympians are the result of years of dedication to grueling training regimes combined with talent and the ability to learn and develop. Being tall does not guarantee you a place in the volleyball team, unless you have skill."

Focus comes with a clear mind

"What separates Olympic athletes from the rest of us is their mind set and dedication. This requires hours of training and a deep desire to understand what it takes to win. Medal winners are the ones that learn faster and more than their opposition. You need to be determined to succeed, with an obsession for detail and improvement. It's a tough life. Athletes experience the highs of wins and the lows of losses as well as setbacks with injuries. You can't survive without the ability to deal with adversity and remain optimistic as success only comes after years of practice."

Ouch: learn to stay injury-free

"Being fit for purpose reduces the risks of injury. A good control of training progression can help as most of the time an injury is the result of wrong training loading patterns that puts the body under too much stress. For us normal people not pursuing Olympic success, general fitness is a good way to avoid injuries..."

Your stomach doesn't like junk

"Athletes should always watch what they eat in order to make sure their nutrition is appropriate for the demands of their sports, the training schedules and their body types. In weight category sports such as boxing or judo, where weight is an issue, athletes control their diets in order to make sure they can compete. In many other sports, nutrition is important not only to make sure body mass is appropriate for each athlete, but also to be able to improve performance by using appropriate timings of macro- and micro-nutrients intake."

Calories in = calories out

"A balanced diet is the secret to a healthy lifestyle. Avoid the unnecessary intake of calories and control your intake of macro-nutrients. We live in a society exposed to carbohydrates and processed sugars, both of which we eat too much of. If someone is overweight, it's often the result of poor food choices in terms of quantity and quality. These are the kind of things to be mindful of. Diet is only part of the equation. Exercise is the most important."

Athlete Q+A

Metro speaks to British artistic gymnast and Olympic hopeful, Louis Smith

RICHARD PECKETT

richard.peckett@metro.lu

DEALING WITH STRESS

"You can't really control your nerves. You can prepare yourself to be in the best mental state. Nerves are what I thrive on. I love the adrenaline rush. I would get bored without it. On the other hand, when you're on the pommel horse, you shouldn't let the adrenaline affect you. If I'm nervous, I listen to reggae. Competitions can be very daunting. It's all down to those 50 seconds..."

THREATS

"Everyone is a threat. I'll be looking out for people like Krisztian Berki from Hungary. If I wobble, the door opens to about 15 other people. If I had a clean routine there would be a few other people that would be in my league. My calmness when it comes to a competition is my forte. I stay focused whereas others can get a bit too hyped."

LIFE AND LOVE

"Training for the Olympics is tough when you're young but you can't lose sight of what you're doing and why you're doing it. What I miss most is dating. I've been single for over a year and would like to find someone. But at the same time I wouldn't want a distraction during the Games."

TRAINING SCHEDULE

"I wake up around 10:30 a.m. and then train from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m. I have a rest, and then I'm back in the gym at 5:30 till about 8 p.m."

Up and Down

UP

APPLES

We've read just about enough of how great apples are for our health. But listen up: researchers from the University of Iowa found that a natural substance in apple peel appears to protect from the downsides of a high-fat diet, including obesity, pre-diabetes and fatty liver disease. The study, initially carried out on mice, is likely to confirm apples as one of the most effective and cheapest superfoods.

DOWN

SALT

Consuming too many salty, savory foods could be the reason why your blood pressure is spinning out of control. New research reported in the American Heart Association journal states that eating a diet high in salt for several years may damage blood vessels and in time, lead to hypertension or high blood pressure.

Eating breakfast helps keep you thin and diabetes-free.

A large U.S. study sought to find out whether breakfast consumption is protective against obesity, metabolic syndrome and type 2 diabetes. Results were dramatic.

"We found that those who reported eating breakfast daily had a 34 per cent decreased risk of developing type 2 diabetes over 18 years," says Andrew Odegaard, a research associate at the University of Minnesota school of public health.

Odegaard and colleagues from Minnesota, Chicago and Boston tracked 3,598 people for nearly 20 years, assessing their dietary habits, their weight, and their health.

Second chances

When we meet someone for the first time, we often create a defining image in our minds of who that person is. Sometimes when an initial interaction is particularly uncomfortable or challenging, we can decide to close our hearts to this new acquaintance entirely. But being too quick to judge can cause us to lose out on a potentially wonderful, enriching relationship.

A Cobb Salad traditionally has loads of chicken, blue cheese, bacon and heavy dressing.

I've lightened up this classic and tossed it into a wrap.

1. Lightly coat a nonstick grill pan with vegetable spray and set over medium heat. Grill chicken 4 mins. each side or until no longer pink. Cool slightly, then slice thinly.

2. Combine tomatoes, red pepper, avocado, black beans, green onions and parsley in bowl. Add lemon juice, sour cream, olive oil, garlic, chili sauce, salt and pepper and mix.

3. Spread one-half of each of the tortillas with some of

Ingredients

- 8 oz skinless boneless chicken breasts (about 2)
- 1/2 cup diced plum tomatoes
- 1/2 cup diced red bell pepper
- 1/2 cup diced ripe avocado
- 1/3 cup canned black beans, drained and rinsed
- 1/4 cup finely chopped green onions
- 1/4 cup chopped parsley
- 4 tsp lemon juice
- 1 tbsp low-fat sour cream
- 1 tbsp olive oil
- 1 tsp finely chopped garlic
- 1/2 tsp hot chili sauce
- pinch of salt and pepper
- 1/2 cup shredded aged light cheddar cheese
- 4 large whole wheat flour tortillas

the mixture. Top with slices of chicken and the shredded cheese. Fold in 2 sides and roll up. Place the wraps in a clean grill pan and cook for 5 minutes, turning halfway, just enough to warm through. (Or heat in a 400 F oven for 5 minutes until warm.) Cut in half and serve.

Three small, sneaky super boosters

NUTRI-BITES
Theresa Albert, DHN, RNCP
myfriendinfood.com

At the speed of our lives, it is hard to get all of the nutrients you need. Everyone needs a few tricks up their sleeve to boost or better the food they choose.

In nutrition circles, "nutrient density" is the name of the game. It means that you should make every mouthful count by choosing unprocessed, fresh, raw vegetables and whole grains every single time. Who can do that?

Here is your cheat sheet of three foods that you can add to whatever you are eating and improve every bite.

Cocoa nibs

Tastes like:
Bitter, crunchy chocolate chips

Good for:

- High in antioxidants
- Contains potassium and magnesium (two nutrients often missing from processed food)

How to use:
Add to yogurt, baking, salads

Chia seeds

Tastes like:
No taste, texture only

Good for:

- Excellent fibre (soluble and insoluble)
- High in trace minerals

How to use:
Add to smoothies, salads, soups, baked goods, sprinkle on convenience foods

Hemp seeds

Tastes like:
Sunflower seeds

Good for:

- High in plant source protein
- Contains good fat GLA needed to make hormones

How to use:
Grind into a nut free "nut" spread and add to vegetarian dishes like lasagne, pasta.

Walnut Tabbouleh. Middle Eastern favourite gets an interesting spin

This recipe makes four to six servings. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Here is a new take on a popular Middle Eastern mezze staple. This tabbouleh recipe combines traditional flavours of parsley and mint with an eastern touch of soy and allspice. Replacing traditional veggies with toasted walnuts adds crunch.

1. Heat oven to 200 C (400 F).

2. Cut sweet potato into 1-cm (1/2-inch) cubes and toss with 15 ml (1 tbsp) walnut or olive oil. Spread evenly on a parchment-lined baking sheet and bake on the centre rack for 20 minutes until light golden brown. Let cool.

3. In a medium frying pan over high heat, combine pomegranate juice and allspice and bring to a boil. Simmer and reduce to 50 ml (1/4 cup) until lightly syrupy. Let cool.

4. In a large bowl, mix walnuts, quinoa, shallot, parsley, mint and soy sauce; add sweet potato and pomegranate juice. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Serve. THE CANADIAN PRESS/ WALNUTINFO.COM

Ingredients

- 1 small sweet potato
- 45 ml (3 tbsp) olive oil
- 250 ml (1 cup) pomegranate juice
- Pinch allspice
- 500 ml (2 cups) walnut pieces, toasted
- 500 ml (2 cups) quinoa,

- cooked and cooled
- 1 shallot, minced
- 500 ml (2 cups) parsley, finely chopped
- 75 ml (1/3 cup) mint, chopped
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) soy sauce
- Salt and pepper

Asparagus and quinoa team up in light salad

1. In a medium saucepan, bring quinoa and 500 ml (2 cups) water to a boil; reduce heat to low, cover and simmer for 15 minutes until most of the water is absorbed. Remove from heat, cover and let stand for 5 minutes. Place in a serving bowl; let cool.

2. Meanwhile, place asparagus, sweet pepper and onion on a rimmed baking sheet;

Ingredients

- 250 ml (1 cup) quinoa, rinsed
- 500 g (1 lb) asparagus, trimmed
- 1 greenhouse sweet pepper, seeded and quartered
- 1 large onion, cut into 1-cm (1/2-inch) thick slices
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) vegetable oil
- 1 can (540 ml/19 oz) chickpeas, drained and rinsed
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) chopped parsley
- 5 ml (1 tsp) grated orange rind
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) orange juice
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) liquid honey
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) each red wine vinegar and Dijon mustard
- 1 small clove garlic, minced
- 1 ml (1/4 tsp) each salt and pepper

This recipe makes six to eight servings. THE CANADIAN PRESS brush with 15 ml (1 tbsp) of the oil. Place vegetables directly on greased grill over medium-high heat; close lid and grill, turning occasionally, until tender-crisp and lightly marked, 5 to 10 minutes, transferring back to baking sheet as they are done. Let cool slightly. Cut into bite-size pieces, stir into quinoa along with chickpeas and parsley.

3. In a small bowl, whisk together remaining oil, orange rind and juice, honey, vinegar, mustard, garlic, salt and pepper; pour over quinoa mixture and toss to coat. Serve at room temperature.

How to know if you really 'click'

Online dating. Is he a keeper? Is she crazy? Learn to read between the lines of a carefully constructed profile

life@metronews.ca

I've found the perfect match. If Plenty of Fish were to search its databank to find the perfect partner, it would no doubt find true love with Facebook.

To illustrate why, I'll paint a picture of an online dater — in this scenario, a 20-something female in front of her computer screen conducting a search on one or more of her favourite Internet dating sites. She's searching by where he lives and his age. At least 50 profiles appear but she doesn't even bother reading them until she spots a look that appeals to her.

Then she reads his profile and if she's still interested, sends him a message. He writes back and after several days of back and forth messages, she moves in a little closer. At this point, she likely asks if he wants to Skype or if he has Facebook. Facebook, it turns out, is her screening tool. There's so much to learn from reading a potential lover's wall. If she's looking for a mature gentleman, she is totally turned off if he swears gratuitously or uses his wall to share half naked pictures of himself and his friends in a drunken stupor. On Facebook, she's able to read between the lines instead of just knowing him through polite online conversation.

So, here are some tips for anyone looking to meet a mate online:

Post a picture

Even though it may seem shallow to only respond to people who have posted pictures of themselves, it appears suspicious if you don't. People might wonder what you're trying to hide. Besides, when you're trying to meet someone through the Internet, visuals are key. Since beauty truly is in the eye of the beholder, there's opportunity for everyone to meet someone.

Don't drag your feet

If you're serious about meeting someone online, expect to move fairly quickly from that first stroke on the keyboard to meeting in person. If you're still in the chatting online phase after weeks of first connecting, it's likely that the person you're talking to may lose interest and move on.

Be prepared to share more than your name

Even before meeting, be prepared to move beyond chatting on your screen to chatting via Skype, for example, so that each of you can hear the others voice or see each other live. Also be prepared to share other information such as your Facebook page or other profiles.

Be courteous

If you decide, after knowing more about someone, that you'd prefer not to continue talking, don't just stop. Share that you feel that you're not a

Reeling one in: There are plenty of fish in the online dating sea. ISTOCK great match after all, wish him or her well, and then move on. Same idea for after a first date.

Have an escape plan

When you do meet, do so in a public place that you're familiar with. If you're a student, meet close to your university or college. If you're working or at home, meet at the coffee shop in your building or close by. That way, you know where to go or turn to if you feel vulnerable. Also, let a friend or family member know who you are meeting and where.

One dater shared that she had a friend contact her a half hour into each first meeting so that she had a way out if she wasn't comfortable or enjoying herself.

No escaping who you really are

One of the great things about social media, Facebook and the Internet is that your date can't hide from who he or she really is. Chances are that if you have a bad reputation or treat people poorly, your potential date will figure that out pretty quickly.

So, even if there are plenty of fish, if you're looking to catch a really good one, you may want to take a fresh look at what others are seeing, and think about whether you're attracting the kind of attention you had hoped for.

Advice

Distance can bring clarity

Dear Sisters, I've been in a rocky relationship for a couple of years now, and we're slowly making progress. Recently, my boyfriend was offered a job abroad and would only be here a few months out of the year. I'm supportive, but worried. With everything we've already been through, I'm not sure if our relationship can withstand the distance. Any advice? Rocky Road

Andrea: Dear Rocky, Are you comfortable with the progress you've made or is there still more to be done before you feel fully committed? Any "loose ends" need to be addressed before his departure so that you can enjoy the limited time you do share.

TWO SISTERS
Andrea and Claire
life@metronews.ca

Separation can be a blessing in disguise: sometimes our fear of being apart is really just a fear of being alone. You could discover an entirely new you without the pitfalls of breakups or "breaks". The time and energy you'll get back may be used for creative endeavours you didn't know you were capable of.

Of course, it will also give you some clarity on where you two really stand. Even if that ends up spelling trouble for your relationship, would you rather be happy and apart or unhappy and together?

Claire: Dear Rockette, Sometimes life gives you the exact roadblocks you didn't know you needed. You two are being forced to take a close look at how much this relationship means to you, and whether it has a future. If he plans to go, it's because part of him doesn't mind leaving his life behind, you included. That doesn't mean he doesn't care about you, it's just where he is in the relationship.

Establish how often you will visit each other, whether you can have flirtations with others, and how long he will give this job to decide whether it's what he wants and also how long you can wait for him. That way you both have clear expectations, so you can both get on with your individual lives in a united way.

Dear Charles the butler, I'm very frustrated when I go out to eat in public restaurants and the service staff are poorly trained and often either don't know what they are doing or don't care.

I feel that when I go out and spend my hard-earned money in a restaurant, that good service is part of the overall experience and the reason you go out to eat. What do you think?

Signed, Desperate for good service

Dear Desperate for good service,

I fully understand your desire for good service! In fact excellent service makes such an impression, that restaurateurs who have figured this out often do much better with their bottom line than restaurants who either don't train their staff properly or pay poor attention to this important detail.

But I also think that there are different levels of service and that we should set our expectations accordingly.

I would expect to go to a fast food restaurant and experience pleasant, polite and efficient service but nothing else.

But I certainly expect a higher level of knowledge and service in a more expensive restaurant. For me poor service is the most annoying.

I am especially annoyed by a waiter who thinks it's necessary to be my best friend while at the table. I have no desire to be their buddy and I just want them to serve the meal properly and allow me to enjoy the company of those I am dining with!

Get outta your dreams, get into your used car

Previously loved wheels. Buying a second-hand vehicle can make a lot of sense — just make sure you do your homework first

YOUR MONEY
Alison Griffiths
money@metronews.ca
Twitter: @alisonmoney

I'm a new car buyer and very faithful to my wheels. My family's last two cars, a Toyota Cressida and Tercel, lived to be 23 and 19 respectively. For me, buying new makes sense. My current vehicles, a 2007 Camry Hybrid, a wickedly wonderful lime-green, and a fire-engine-red 2011 Ford 150 Ecoboost will probably outlive me.

However, for many people, buying used is a better choice if for no other reason than cost.

If you're considering a previously loved vehicle turn to edmunds.com and its recently published annual guide to the best used cars. Not long ago the winners came from the usual suspects, Toyota, Honda and Nissan. Now other Asian manufacturers like Hyundai and even American makers are making the list.

Edmunds.com ranks the vehicles according to reliability, longevity, crash test results, value and availability. The latter is important but not often considered by buyers. The more cars you have to choose from the better deal you can make and the more options you will have.

Here are some of the major category winners for the years 2005 to 2010:

-Compact sedan:

New to you

- Second-hand vehicles in demand. 65 per cent of all cars sold in Canada are used.

Hyundai Elantra
-Mid-size sedan: Nissan Altima
-Large sedan: Hyundai Azera
-Wagon: Pontiac Vibe
-Compact SUV/Crossover: Honda CR-V
-Minivan/Van: Honda Odyssey
-Compact Truck: Toyota Tacoma
-Hybrid: Toyota Prius

You can find all the category results with notes about the models at edmunds.com/car-reviews/best-used-cars.html.

Don't forget that while a used car might be cheaper than a new one, financing charges are often higher. If you have little or no down payment then you could easily have higher monthly payments buying used.

Zero interest new car purchases are rarer than they were at the height of the recession, but financing charges on new cars are often two to four per cent less than on a used vehicle if you purchase through a dealer.

Alison's money rule

"Used cars can be better than new with a big down payment and a little research."

The best strategy when buying used is to aim for at least 25 per cent down, finance with a personal or home equity line of credit and set the payments to discharge the debt in less than four years.

According to H&R Block and Canada Revenue Agency last week, most Canadians filed their taxes by April 30 and now have their refunds, which averaged $1,600. Many will use it to save or pay off debt while others will blow it on fun and frivolous items or upcoming summer holidays.

Do you have a plan for your tax return? Have you written it down on Post-it notes, a spreadsheet, built a budget, or made mental notes?

Through Mint.com, tracking your money, including tax refunds, is about to get way easier; no more wading through piles of statements or sorting through overly complex budgeting templates.

After a quick five minute sign-up process, Mint.com securely pulls all your financial accounts, from multiple institutions, into one place. Using their proprietary software, your financial information is categorized into understandable buckets of data like savings, investments, mortgages, bills and more.

These categories can be analyzed and summarized so that you know what your total financial situation looks like at any given time; including your net worth.

Mint.com also makes budgeting a synch. It automatically calculates your average spending in any category which allows users to create a realistic budget that is based on historical spending.

Once your budget is established, you can set goals to reduce unnecessary spending and support your larger financial plans for retirement, family, career and education. The investment tracking piece of the website allows you to compare how your portfolio is performing relative to various benchmarks. Mint.com also offers free tips to help build your bottom line.

If there looks to be something suspicious happening in your account or if you're dangerously close to blowing your budget in a particular category, you'll be notified. You can set up customized notifications such as bill due date reminders or credit availability. These alerts allow you to avoid fees and protect your credit score.

One of my favourite parts about Mint.com is the summary of fees within your various accounts; ATM, account, brokerage, and investment fees. Fees can gobble up hundreds of dollars throughout the year and Mint.com can help you identify and reduce them.

If you're scared to fork over so much personal information, rest easy. I, too, was a sceptic. But, I'm now convinced that Mint.com's security sys-

Busy year for Canada in Rugby sevens

A year away from the Rugby World Cup Sevens 2013 in Moscow and Canadian sevens boss Geraint John's datebook is already full. The Canadian men will gather next week in Victoria, ahead of an Aug. 10-12 selection camp in the B.C. capital and the North America/Caribbean qualifying tournament Aug. 25-26 in Ottawa. The region will send two teams to the 24-country men's half of the world sevens championship, with Canada and the U.S. favoured to go through. Canada and the Americans will also both be full participants in the expanded 10-team IRB World Series starting in the fall as world rugby starts the road to Olympic participation in 2016.

Parise and Suter put signings on hold

NHL. Prized free agents play waiting game while Brodeur stays put in New Jersey

Zach Parise needed more than 24 hours to choose which hockey team to make happy.

"I'm getting closer but haven't made a decision," Parise told reporters Monday in Mississauga, according to

The Canadian Press. "I haven't set any deadlines."

New Jersey is hoping to keep Parise, who became a free agent Sunday when he didn't re-sign with the Devils. Pittsburgh, Detroit, Minnesota and Nashville are among the teams trying to lure him away from the only team he has played for in his NHL career.

New Jersey did make a splash Monday morning, however, signing Martin Brodeur to a new two-year contract.

After testing free agency for the first time in his career, Brodeur, 40, earned a pact worth $9 million US. More than likely, the goaltender will finish his career with the Devils.

The NHL's all-time leader in wins and shutouts, Brodeur has led the Devils to three Stanley Cups and two other finals, including a loss to the Los Angeles Kings in six games this past season.

Meanwhile, the Montreal Canadiens locked up goaltender Carey Price for the next six years.

Price played 65 games for the Canadiens last season. The two-time all-star posted a 26-28-11 record with a 2.43 goals-against average, a .916 save percentage and four shutouts.

Sharapova's Wimbledon bid thwarted

Wimbledon. 'Manic Monday' sees Federer, Williams advance

All at once, there was a frenzy of activity at a wet and windy All England Club early Monday afternoon.

Top-seed and 2004 Wimbledon champion Maria Sharapova was overpowered in a 6-4, 6-3 loss to No. 15 Sabine Lisicki. Four-time title winner Serena Williams was locked in a three-set tussle against a wild-card entry from Kazakhstan who is ranked 65th but is responsible for the only perfect set in women's professional tennis. Defending champion Petra Kvitova was trying to come back after dropping her opening set.

And over on Centre Court, there was the not-so-insignificant matter of 16-time Grand Slam champion Roger Federer's medical timeout to get treatment for his aching back.

The start of Week 2 at Wimbledon has been dubbed "Manic Monday," because it's the only major tournament that has all 16 fourth-round singles matches on one day.

The most newsworthy result was the abrupt end of

Defeat

"Nothing is easy. Certainly not a Wimbledon title."

Maria Sharapova

Sharapova's bid to become the first woman since Williams in 2002 to win the French Open and Wimbledon in the same year. Less than a month after completing a career Grand Slam in Paris to return to No. 1, Sharapova bowed out against someone she had beaten the three other times they met. She will be replaced atop the rankings next week.

Federer, seeking a seventh trophy at the grass-court Grand Slam, beat Xavier Malisse 7-6 (1), 6-1, 4-6, 6-3 to reach a 33rd consecutive major quarterfinal, adding to his record. After the seventh game, Federer got help from a trainer for his back though his play didn't appear to suffer much, other than slower-than-usual serves. On the other hand, Federer capped the match with a 122-mph ace.

The only other man assured a spot in Wednesday's quarterfinals is No. 1 Novak Djokovic.

The women's quarterfinals are set for Tuesday: Williams vs. Kvitova and Lisicki vs. Angelique Kerber. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Horoscope

♈ Aries | March 21 - April 20.

You need to be more emotionally open with those you live, work and do business with, but not so open that you reveal all your secrets.

♉ Taurus | April 21 - May 21.

The amount of time and effort that has gone into your attempts to change a habit could have been used for more productive ends.

♊ Gemini | May 22 - June 20.

Mars, planet of ego and energy, moves into the most dynamic area of your chart today and soon you will be feeling on top of the world again — which is where you belong.

♋ Cancer | June 21 - July 22.

Today's cosmic activity urges you to put negative thoughts behind you and believe that your life is everything it could be and more. Positive thinking is a powerful force.

♌ Leo | July 23 - Aug. 22.

The next few days will be extremely busy for you, especially socially where you will be in demand like never before.

♍ Virgo | Aug. 23 - Sept. 22.

Mars moves out of your birth sign today your confidence may dip a little, but it's no big deal. Focus on what you own and are earning.

♎ Libra | Sept. 23 - Oct. 22.

Mars, the planet that makes things happen, joins Saturn, the planet that stops things from happening, in your birth sign today. But that's OK. You'll find ways to make the combo work.

♏ Scorpio | Oct. 23 - Nov. 21.

Some kind of hidden knowledge is about to be revealed to you and if you use it wisely, your existence may well be transformed. There is more to life than meets the eye. Use your inner eye to see with today.

♐ Sagittarius | Nov. 22 - Dec. 21.

Group activities will be a lot of fun today and if you play your cards right you will impress some important people too.

♑ Capricorn | Dec. 22 - Jan 20.

New opportunities in your work or career are about to arrive. How you use them is up to you but use them you must. It's a chance to move up.

♒ Aquarius | Jan. 21 - Feb 18.

The past few weeks have been tough but with Mars moving in your favour, better times are about to begin. If you get the chance to travel, take it.

♓ Pisces | Feb. 19 - March 20.

Don't let minor setbacks worry you because overall your prospects are amazingly good. Where joint business issues are concerned you must be more willing to take a risk.
